AFGHAN PRONTIER.

General Status of Affairs in Europe.

London, April 15 .- The Times thinks that Germany has solid reasons for wishing to prevent a war which might involve the whole of Europe, in which case Germany would probably be obliged to fight in order to retain what she already possesses, rather than to gain additional power. Moreover, the maintenance of Russia's financial credit is supremely important to the moneyed interest of Barlin.

Military movements in Aighanistan are exceedingly difficult at present on account the almost unprecedented severity of the weather. Incessant storms of snow and hail on the mountains and rain in the valleys have swollen the rivers into floods, which are impassable by any means of transportation; with which General Lumsden's forces are supplied. The weather is exceptionally cold, and this fact tells more severely on the British officers and Indian troops, who are from the south, than upon the Russians, who come from the north.

The Paris La Paix says that in the event of war between England and Russia the obtained money under false pretenses from other powers, especially France, must remain strictly neutral. The La Paix hints that such an agreement already exists.

Mr.Gladstone's apparent hesitation over the Kushk River affair has emboldened Russia, and she is now taking her turn in demanding explanations and withdrawals. The report is confirmed that DaGiers has demanded an explanation of the presence of Captain Yates, of General Lumsden's staff, at the Kushk River battle and of the part he is said to have taken in provoking this engagement. Special dispatches from St. Petersburg even assert that Russia has demanded the recall of General Lumsden himself on the ground of his pronounced sympathy with the Afghans in their hostility toward Russia, but the statement is doubtful.

The Government is still wrangling with Turkey over the terms of the proposed Auglo-Turkish alliance. Long interviews between Earl Granville and Musuru; Pasha, the Turkish Minister, or Hassan Fehm Pasha, the Sultan's special envoy, are of daily occurrence. The Sultan is cov and is coquetting with both England and Russia. He probably never feit his importance in European politics so keenly as at this moment. When Mr. Gladstone, who formerly described him as the unspeakable Turk, is bidding for his favor against the Russians, who whipped him in 1877, the Russians are making tempting overtures to Turkey, baiting the hook with provinces on her northern boundary, the possession of which would tend to consolidate and perpetuate the Turkish Empire in Europe. The solicitude of both England and Russia for Turkey's friendship is, of course, caused by the latter's control of the Dardanelles, which command the entrance to the Black Sea. There is, however, this important difference between the two suitors for Turkey's favor. England could force the straits and Russia could not. No ordinary war vessels of either navy could pass the Dardanelles castles, and the forts and batteries which line the straits from the Ægean Sea to the Sea of Marmora, but the forts could be silenced by two or three of the British monster turret ships, such as the Inflexible, Devastation, Terror, Alexandria or Hercules. These floating steel forts could be stationed at either end of the straits to protect England and exclude Russian vessels. These facts are as well known to the heaviest guns.

Lord Dufferin in Cashmere.

British Viceory of India, has arrived here from, Rawal Pindi. He comes officially to confer with the Maharajah of Cashmere. The Viceroy was met by a great crowd and accorded a splendid reception. In reply to the address of welcome presented by the officers of the municipality, Earl Dufferin spoke officially of the Anglo-Russian situation in signicant words. Among other things, he said: "Coming from an important interview with the Amser of Afghanistan, whose dominions, as far as I have been able to ascertain, have been the scene of an unprovoked attack, it is a great satisfaction to find the Princes and people ready with one accord to rally around the standard of Great Britain even at a distance from their own frontier. It is impossible to say how the present crisis will end. If it ends in war, that result will be in spite of the earnest and anxious endeavor of the British Government to avoid so dire a result, and in defiance of their most moderate and conciliatory conduct."

A Terrible Tragedy, Murder and Suicide. St. Louis, April 15 .- Advices from Holt County, Missouri, say that a terrible tragedy occurred on Monday night at the farm-house of the Widow Hardin, about fifteen miles from St. Joseph. It appears that William Clark, a farmer and a married man, had seduced the daughter of the Widow Hardin, and that he, the widow and her daughter and Lawver Durgan had a conference on Monday with a view to settling the matter. No result was reached, but during the evening Clark called at the widow's house, which was only a short distance from his own, and a hot discussion ensued, ending in a quarrel, during which Clark shot and killed the widow, mortally wounded the daughter and badly wounded a young son of the widow. Clark then went home, fed his hogs and did other work about the place. Yesterday morning his dead did other work about the place. Yesterday morning his dead did other work about the place. A Negro Case of Rabies.

WILMINGTON, Del., April 14,-Yesterday afternoon the police arrested a supposed crazy negro, named Nathan Williams, who, with a knife in his hand, was chasing another man through the streets. After his arrest Williams tried to kill the policeman having him in charge. At the police station his malady was pronounced hydrophobia, and he was manacled and taken to the Alms House, raving and crying "Don't kill me." At the Alms House he announced that he was a good watch dog, and through the night continued to yelp and indulge in prolonged howls. He still continues in much the same condition. Williams is about sixty years old, and has long been known as the "Dogfat man."

A Sharp Crook Arrested.

NEW YORK, April 14.-Phil E. Leskie was arrested to day on a telegram from Rochester, charging him with falsifying the accounts of the Rochester Lock Company, in whose employ he was. Leskie is said to have various persons since he left Rochester. Among them was the Chief of Police of Centralia, Ill., from whom he got $160; he also induced a boarding house mistress in Centralia to go with him to San Francisco, where he left the lady with $300 of hers in his pocket.

A Remarkable Killing.

FORT SMITH, Ark., April 14.-A remarkable killing occurred about twenty-five miles from here in Bates Township on Sunday evening. John Calhoun, a farmer and prominent citizen, got into a difficulty with John Claunce, a Justice of the Peace of the township, and was handling Claunce rather roughly, when the latter picked up a rock and threw it at Calhoun, striking him in the temple and producing almost instant death. Claunce surrendered bimself and is now in KENTUCKY BANDITS.

How Unreal They Are Compared With the Comic Opera Kind.

Louisville (Ky.) Commercial. "I never was so frightened in my life." said Miss May Fielding, the prima donna of the Carleton Opera Company, vesterday, referring to the collision the company had with the Rowan County bandits at Morehead last Thursday, when Mr. W. T. Carleton, the baritone, came near being shot.

"What did the bandits look like?" inquired a Commercial reporter.

"Well, now, that's the funniest part of the whole business, don't you know," said Miss Fielding taking a long breath. They were not bandits I'm perfectly familiar with bandits. Why, I've seen Mr. Cariston play Fra Diavolo ever so many times and have known at least a dozen men who sang Devilshoof in 'The Bohemian Girl.' Why I would know a bandit with my eyes shut in the dark. Just before we got to Morehead the train people had been telling us about the Rowan County desperadoes, but we did not expect to see any of them. When the train stopped three g-r-e-a-t t-a-l-i thi-n men came into the coach with long pistols on their shoulders.'

"Pistols on their shoulders!" echoed the reporter. 'I presume they were pistols," explained

Miss Fielding, with a look of intense surprise and inquiry. "They had triggers and barrele just like pistols. "Rifles, I guess," explained the reporter.

"They might have been rifles-that's so," said Miss Fielding with a smile of delight. "Perhaps they were rifles. I'm not familiar with anything but these young pistols with which they shoot at three-sheet poster cuts in the target galleries.

"Anyhow," she continued, merrily, "I thought the men were trappers, you know, going out to hunt. So I asked one of them if he found many rabbits.

"'Rabbits!' he said, with a frown like a railroad tunnel. 'Rabbits, woman!' and he seemed to get madder at every second. 'Great God, rabbits don't go; I'm buntin' for "'Great goodness,' I said, frightened to death, 'we can't spare any but one or two chorus singers. You can take your choice, sir.' You see, I was afraid he would change his mind and go to hunting women. I started to go back to my seat, when just then another of the men leaped to his feet in the aisle. and, pointing his gun toward me, shouted: "Stop there!

"Of course I stopped. I never was so scared in my life. I said to the man:

"'Oh, I'll stop, sir; you needn't be afraid of me; I didn't mean anything, sir.'

"'I ain't talkin' to you,' he said, and then saw he was looking over my shoulder and I turned and saw Mr. Carleton coming in the door from the smoking car. It seems that Mr. Carleton had a bottle of buttermilk in his hip pocket and was trying to pull it out. I couldn't see what harm there was in a bottle of buttermilk, but Captain Sam Gaines, of Frankfort, told me that a bottle filled with buttermilk was enough to arouse Rowan County men to a tremendous pitch of desperation. Somehow they regard it as a dead waste of bottle. While the men were occupied with Mr. Carleton I asked one of the brakemen who they were, and he said thay were the Rowan County bandits. Bat I don't believe a word of it. They didn't have any ribbons in their hats and there was not a glimpse of silk tights anywhere. They didn't have even a guitar, and they didn't look like they had been shaved for a month. Why, if Mr. Carleton looked like those men when he of them and asked him if he was a real bandit and if he could sing 'Fra Diavolo.' He looked at me a moment in the most ungentlemanly manner and growled out:

"'No, marm, I ain't no bandit. I'm a wolf from the head waters of Bitter Crick, whar the higher you go the bitterer the water and the hungrier the wolves. I don't sing: I how! when it's my night.'

"I knew at first that they were not ban-dits," concluded Miss Fielding, with a look of absolute conviction, "because I've seen se many bandits, you know. I don't know what they were. They were not wolves LA LIBERTAD, SAN SALVADOR, VIA GALVES either, and it was easy enough to see the man was lying about that. I don't know what they were, but I'm real glad they let us off."

Another Clear and Positive Recovery-An Elderly Lady's Letter.

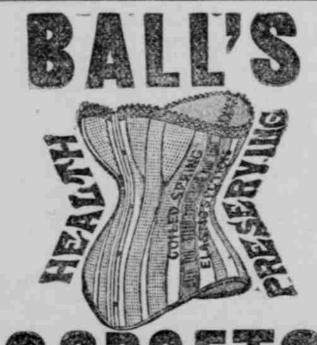

Among the numerous letters received by Dr. Kennedy testifying to notable SALT RHEUM cures, the following will be found of interest to our readers, who may accept our assurance of its perfect authenticity and truthfulness:

WORGESTER, Mass., March 23, 1834.

Dr. D. Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y .: DEAR SIR-Until recently I have been for three years a sufferer from Salt Rheum. It followed upon an attack of Erysipelas, for which I was for a long time under medical treatment. I placed myself again in the hands of the physicians who did, I have no doubt, all that could be done. One thing is sure, however, I was none the better for all the medicine they gave me. The painful and unsightly disease made continual progress, until I began to fear I should never get rid of it. By means of one of those accidents that often result in so much blessing I had my attention called to your FAVORITE REMEDY, which I was told would surely do me good. I used it, and within a much shorter time than I would have believed possible, I received a permanent cure. I am now perfectly free from Salt Rheum. What a comfort this is, and how it places your wonderful medicine in my opinion, you may guess at, but never know. I keep it now constantly in the house as a family medicine. Yours truly,

MRS, DINAH PHAIR, Mrs. Phair sometime since went on a visit to Kansas, found a case of Salt Rheum, could not get FAVORITE REMEDY, sent to New York City for it, and cured the case. For all diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys,
